NEW STATES.

Sprague Prepares Amendments to the Omnibus Bill.

In Accordance With the Decision of the Delmore the Opinion.

Provision Made For Admission of North and South Dakota.

Executive Committee of Democratic Clubs Confer.

Democrats and the Territories.

WASHINGTON, December 15.—In connection with the Democratic caucus of last Thursday night to consider the omnibus bill and to agree on a line of action in the passage of the bill for the admission of Dakota, Montana, Washington and New Mexico, which is the people of Dakota the greatest of determination whether the statutory plan shall be adopted as one of two states Representative Springer, chairman of the committee on territories, has determined to bring the bill before the house at the earliest practicable day. The bill reported by the committee provides that the territories of Dakota, Montana, Washington and New Mexico shall be admitted into the union as soon as the proclamation of the president can be issued after the people of the territories have ratified a constitution for state government, republican in form, and not repugnant to the constitution of the United States. The bill also provides that the constitutional conventions for the proposed states shall be held on the first Tuesday after the third Monday in May, 1889, that the delegates elected shall meet in convention on the following 4th of July and prepare constitutions to be submitted to the people for their action on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November following, to determine whether or not the territory of Dakota shall be divided. Mr. Springer will offer an amendment to the omnibus bill providing that at the election for delegates to the constitutional conventions, Sprague has prepared an amendment providing that electors in each of the proposed territories shall be held on the first Tuesday after the third Monday in May, 1889, that the delegates elected shall meet in convention on the following 4th of July and prepare constitutions to be submitted to the people for their action on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November following, to determine whether or not the territory of Dakota shall be divided. Mr. Springer will offer an amendment to the omnibus bill providing that at the election for delegates to the constitutional conventions in May next, ballots may be voted for the adoption or rejection of the constitution, without reference to the question whether the territory shall be divided. Under the words "Dakota" or "No division" in the ballot, a majority of the votes cast on that question in the territory south of the seventh parallel of latitude may be for division, then the delegates so elected in that part of the territory south of said parallel shall assemble in convention at Bismarck. Each convention shall then form a constitution for the state which constitution shall be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection. Each state shall be entitled to one representative in congress. Appropriations to defray the expenses of holding the conventions are increased so as to provide for seven conventions in a sum of $30,000. It is provided that should the people reject the respective constitutions the territorial governments of Dakota shall continue to exercise the same as if this act had not been passed, or if the constitution for either North or South Dakota should be rejected, then the part of the territory rejecting shall continue under the territorial government of Dakota. In case the people vote for division provision is made for a commission by the two conventions to readjust and agree on the amount of territorial debt to be assumed by each of the proposed states.

Springer will call a meeting of the committee some time next week for the purpose of submitting the proposed amendments to them for consideration. He proposes to report the amendments to the bill to the house at an early day. He will also ask the committee to consider the propriety of proposing an additional section to the omnibus bill providing that whenever an organized territory of the United States shall have a sufficiently ascertained population equal to the number necessary to entitle it to a representative in congress, such territory shall be authorized through its legislature to call a constitutional convention to consist of not less than 75 members who shall assemble at the seat of government of the territory and form a constitution for submission to the people. If a majority of the people vote for it it is to be transmitted to the president and by him laid before congress, and if the constitution so adopted be republican in form and not at war with the constitution and laws of the United States, the territory shall be admitted into the union of states and congress shall pass an act therefor.

Democratic Clubs.

NEW YORK, December 15.—A meeting of the executive committee of democratic clubs was held today. The committee brought the recent nationwide fear which they had entertained will have the effect of stimulating all clubs to take more aggressive action in the campaign of '92. It was voted to have a meeting of the committee, a body of the delegates from each state at an early date, when the date of the next national convention of clubs will be fixed.

Hill Not in the Race.

DENVER, December 15.—In view of the fact that the name of ex-Senator Hill has been freely used in the eastern press in connection with the coming national convention of Colorado Mr. Hill today in the most emphatic manner declared that he has not been a candidate and would not be for any circumstances allow the use of his name.

Sullivan and Kilrain.

NEW YORK, December 15.—Another fight was arranged today in the arrangements for a fight for the championship of the world between Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan. Today a gentleman who gave his name as Richard Rowe and who called on Colonel Cohrin, editor of the New York Clipper, and expressed a willingness to cover the $5000 deposit

WHO WILL BE TAKEN?

A Question Now Agitating Washington Politicians.

Walter Wellman Discusses the Interesting Cabinet Question.

Why Certain Men Are Likely to Receive Favors.

General Harrison Has Considerable to Keep.

Special Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—President-elect Harrison is now receiving the assurance of several dozen and would be cabinet makers. New cities are arranged for him every day and before the week ends this list will have finished their work all the prominent Republicans in the country will be figured in the lists of momentary favorites. A good deal of this cabinet gossip is arrant nonsense. No one can imagine, for instance, that the president-elect will put his law partner in the cabinet. He might make him secretary of the treasury, but it is safe to predict he will not. Nor is it any more likely that his large, placid, courteous and dignified senior law associate, John B. Ham, or his small, nervous, brainy and dyspeptic junior partner, W. H. Miller, will become attorney general. I know these gentlemen, and am quite sure neither of them has a drop of blood in his veins that will consent to the undignified act of entering the Harrison cabinet. They will doubtless be proud to remain at those rather gloomy law chambers opposite the Federal building, in Indianapolis, behind the modest shingle, "B. Harrison, Lawyer," and carry on what is now the largest law practice in Indiana and one which is sure to grow.

Gossip about the personnel of the coming cabinet is at this time made interesting that valuable. But if one may not desire the hidden and unexpressed decisions of the president-elect and thus know the unknowable, he can, if he wishes, analyze and relate to something like a logical statement the conditions with which the new president is surrounded in his labors now just begun.

The prominent objections to the cabinets Mr. Harrison intends taking is selecting his official family. If the best political practice contain line of cabinet these will have to be redressed, for Mr Harrison is a man of honor. But he may have political obligations which do not amount to "promises" debts of gratitude, which are to be fairly paid. Much is due to the leaders of the party, for no president has ever succeeded in pulling up a great administration by gathering around him in official life a parcel of nobodies. That experiment has been tried and has always resulted in disaster. The president who is afraid of being overshadowed during his term generally finds himself overtangled at the end of it. Then there is the party weal to be considered—the party as a whole. Where and how can the president in his selection of a cabinet best satisfy and strengthen the party? This question is not lost sight of by the conventions chief. But above all, a new president has the right to choose for his advisers men who are likely to be congenial to him and to each other, men in whom he has confidence, for whom he has a liking, and who are in view, temperament and ambition suitable and satisfactory to the president himself.

Mr. Harrison, I happen to know, was nominated at Chicago with no pledges concerning cabinet appointments. The casual observer and amateur politician imagines that cabinet places are bartered and sold in these national conventions like fish at a market place. But nothing could be further from the truth. The men who were instrumental in nominating Harrison did so because that seemed to them the best thing to do after their own plans had failed, and they acted without pledge or promise from the nominee.

Gen. Harrison has debts to pay, but no contracts to keep. Aside from his personal relations to friends in Indiana, Mr. Harrison has not a fear of debts of gratitude to pay which are great enough to command places in the cabinet. Three of the men mentioned in the Chicago convention, and one in the campaign. The last named could be satisfied by offering the postmaster general-ship to John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, the rich merchant who expended a fortune by keeping a good general store and spending all his surplus for some years in newspaper advertising. Wanamaker was the heaviest individual contributor to the Republican campaign fund, and of course Gen. Harrison owes him something on that account, but more on account of the services of Chairman Quay, who "wants nothing for himself, but is for John Wanamaker for anything." At the Chicago convention Quay was not for Harrison, and was one of the last to come in under the victorious banner. The first great obligation there put upon Harrison was when Miller, Hiscock, Platt and Depew, the big four delegates from New York, agreed to support Harrison. That was the entering wedge which made the nomination of Harrison possible, and for it Mr. Harrison should be duly grateful. But at the same time he very well knows that in pursuance of a well defined plan of the friends of Mr. Blaine to make an appearance of giving all the candidates a fair opportunity to [illegible] demonstrated none could win and the field be thus cleared for the leader of 1884, this wisdom was to sooner driven in than preparations were made to withdraw it. When the Harrison men came into the convention hall that Monday morning they had small expectation of success. They had pleaded with the New York leaders for "another chance," and this had been accorded them, but were spurned by the unyielding countenance, plainly stated, that if after two ballots the nomination could not be brought to Harrison he was to be dropped and Senator Sherman taken up as New York's favorite. At that opportune moment Blaine's telegrams of acquiescence arrived, and Harrison was nominated before the time came for New York to carry out its programme. Indeed there were such incentives for irresistible was the support of Harrison, because Blaine, the real objective point of the managing leaders, was out of the question.

But right here another obligation was incurred. Senator Allison and Harrison had been close friends in the senate. The Iowa senator never had any great hopes of securing the nomination for himself, and for that he is to be strength, he [illegible] Harrison, both before and after the [illegible] ballots. His ballots [illegible] authorized [illegible] or for the one who could be nominated. Allison's decision to withdraw came just at the moment when Harrison was on the top wave and Iowa's plump for Harrison carried the day. Here we have the

NEWS FROM EGYPT.

Authorities Do Not Credit Stanley's Capture

Of Osman Digna, the Mahdi.

The Subject Discussed in the British Parliament.

An Important Capture of Opium Smugglers Effected.

The Capture of Osman.

BERLIN, December 15.—The Berlin correspondent of the London Standard says that military and political authorities in Berlin do not believe the story that Osman Pasha has been captured and has been deported, but are in doubt about the capture of Stanley.

SUAKIM, December 15.—The dispatches sent upon the capture which brought the news of Osman Digna's defeat, were the cause of much pleasure and satisfaction here, but they were not believed to be true.

LONDON, December 15.—In the commons Lord Randolph Churchill asked whether any of the captors of Emin Pasha and Stanley were true whether the government would negotiate with Osman Digna for the release of the Europeans at Khartoum before becoming hostilities.

Goschen, acting government leader, replied that the information received by the government was so uncertain it would be impossible to suspend operations for the relief of Wadai during the many weeks that would elapse before the fate of the explorers could be ascertained.

John Morley moved the government [illegible] Monday. Goschen replied that the request could not be complied with, but he promised that no instructions would be given to hurry operations.

Morley—May I take it then, that the government will do the best they can to prevent the commencement of hostilities without tying the hands of the military authorities?

Goschen—I cannot tie the hands of the military authorities. I shall not go an inch beyond the statement I have already made.

Opium Smuggling.

ST. PAUL, December 15.—The Pioneer Press says United States secret service officers here are on the track of a gigantic opium smuggling conspiracy. They have evidence that an organized, well equipped band of smugglers for years has been operating across the northern border. One of the gang has been arrested recently at Denver, Colo., and made full confession. Acting upon the information given by the deputy collector at St. Vincent, Minn., went west to a point in North Dakota [illegible] Wednesday and intercepted a wagon load of eight hundred pounds of crude opium. The whole outfit was seized and the driver of the wagon arrested. Last night [illegible] special officials left St. Paul for the north to arrest the men for whom the opium was consigned.

PORT HURON, Mich., December 15.—For some time it has been known here and at all the points along the border that a big consignment of opium was en route through Canada and that an effort would be made to smuggle it across the border somewhere in this customs district. Yesterday afternoon four customs officers were dispatched up shore with instructions to look after a consignment of the drug which would be landed probably at Sand Beach or near there. The plans of the officers were successfully executed, in so far as securing the drug was concerned, but no arrest has yet been made. The opium was landed from a little schooner near Port Hope and hidden on shore, the schooner at once putting back to Canada. The officers found the opium last night but the confederate who was guarding it escaped. The opium is valued at $30,000. It was brought from Vancouver, B. C. It is believed La Belle the famous smuggler who recently escaped from United States officials after he had been arrested here and was being taken to Detroit is engaged in the present enterprise. Arrests are almost sure to follow.

A. C. Neilson alias J. M. Leonard is the name of the man arrested in Denver charged with opium smuggling. On Tuesday last, Mark Harding, special agent of the treasury department, reported to United States Marshal Hill that he suspected Neilson's presence in this city. Harding had a copy of a way bill from the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway at Battmeyd, Dakota, for this city. The consignee claimed the freight consisted of household goods. This consignment was directed to A. C. Neilson, Denver, Colo., and weighed 800 pounds. Deputy Marshal Currier proceeded to the Union Pacific freight office for the purpose of making the arrest when the goods were called for. On Wednesday a stranger with ill fitting clothes asked for goods consigned to Neilson, and he was [illegible] arrested. Arrangements at the Metropolitan hotel was subsequently searched and found to contain 147 packages of prepared opium, containing seventy three pounds. No compromising documents were found on Neilson's person or among his effects except some cards of Chinese merchants in San Francisco. The prisoner, without knowing his trunk had been opened, said he was awaiting household goods to reship them to San Francisco. As far as from this he was absolutely non-committal, and would not say a word even in his own behalf. Neilson is well supplied with money. He spoke has a rough like appearance, and had $125 in his pockets when arrested. The prisoner waived examination when arraigned before the commissioner and was taken Friday night by the officers to St. Paul. These particulars did not leak out until today.

St. Louis Street Railways.

ST. LOUIS, December 15.—The sale of a majority of St. Louis street railways to Chicago capitalists was consummated at noon. The purchasers are C. B. Holmes and L. C. Hutchinson. The roads sold are the Union Cutting, Cass Avenue and Northern Central purchase price $3,000,000.

Federation of Labor.

ST. LOUIS, December 15.—The Federation of Labor re elected Samuel Gompers of New York president, and chose Boston as the place for the next meeting. The afternoon session was very brief. After disposing of routine matters the federation adjourned until the second Tuesday of next December.

Rowell's Challenge.

NEW YORK, December 15.—George W. Atkinson today cables the following from London to Richard K. Fox: "Chas. Rowell has issued a challenge for a six day go as you please walking match to Charles Albert, champion of America, and George Littlewood, champion of the world, for the diamond belt, Littlewood to be the latter, and the sum of $10,000 a side. He also states that he will enter in a sweepstakes for any sum from 500 to 500 pounds each and the diamond belt, open to all comers, the race to come off next March in the Agricultural hall at Islington or in the Aquarium, London."

White Caps Use Dynamite.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 15.—Alderman Hines, who was ordered by White Caps a few days ago to resign within 48 hours and leave the city, has heard from his persecutors again this morning. A dynamite bomb was found on his piazza. The fuse had been ignited but expired before the explosion could occur.

The Rev. Dr De La Matyr, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, of Denver, will preach at the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city next Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. A. C. Peck, who will occupy his pulpit in Denver.

Mr. Chas. E. Aiken has at his museum, on Pike's Peak avenue the tooth of a huge mastodon. It was found while excavating for the Rock Island cut north of the city last summer. It has petrified and weighs about six pounds and is about eight inches in length. It is splendidly preserved.

Bacon & Cowell now have the agency of the Rock Island coal, and will hereafter have it for sale at their transfer office, 28 Pike's Peak avenue. The coal is taken from the Midland mines in the Greenhorn range, near the Spanish Peak, and is claimed to be superior to any coal in the market.

An interesting place to visit just at present is the Red Rock canon, near Colorado City. The canon has always been one of the most charming spots in this vicinity, but the work being done there in the stone quarries makes it doubly interesting. In two of the quarries steam power has been introduced which may be a great novelty to many. Stone weighing twenty tons are cut from the solid rock and lifted by means of immense derricks onto the railroad cars. The Midland has just completed a switch up the canon to the quarries. There are three firms quarrying the stone: The Colorado Stone company, Snyder Brothers and Greenlee & Smith. Anthony Boff is taking out the white sand stone at his quarries, just this side of the canon.

Prof. Byington has kindly furnished the following programme for the usual examinations at the public schools, which mark the close of a term:

There will be no school during the afternoons of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next. Reports will be distributed to the different classes and [illegible] on Friday afternoon. The next term will commence January 7th, giving two weeks vacation instead of one as in former years.

We published on Tuesday morning an account of the trouble on Sunday on the Divide between McCoy and Gilmore of Hall's ranch and Massey of Dr. E. G. Walls' ranch. The Denver Republican of yesterday gave another version of the affray as follows: "Dr Walls states that the men from Hall's ranch, named McCoy and Gilmore, tore down his wire fence and then followed E. T. Massey, his employe, to within 10 feet of his kitchen door where they assaulted him. Gilmore having an iron bar. The doctor was in the house and was called by Massey, who had armed himself with a shot gun. The doctor says: 'When I saw the situation I called 'shoot him,' but at that moment Gilmore had started away, his horse on the jump and was out of range. Then I found McCoy, a man weighing about 260 pounds, hiding in my kitchen. I burst open the door and punished him with my fist. That is all there is to it.' As the case comes before the courts this morning it is not proper to discuss it, but it is only just to give both sides.

FASHIONS IN FLOWERS.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS HAVE SUPERSEDED ORCHIDS AND LILIES

Thanks the [illegible] Thing Nowadays—The Way to Dress for a Walk [illegible] by Spots and Their Various Names.

New York, Dec. 13.—There is a fresh fad in flowers as well as everything else, and those who [illegible] position for their [illegible] the elite of society would lay aside wear a flower that was [illegible] would be seen out [illegible] Just now the deep blue violets are the fashion for [illegible]

WALKING GOWN AND PRUSSIAN REDINGOTE.

[illegible] day flowers, the lighter colored ones not being worn at all. A few pure white violets are worn at balls for corsage bouquets and in the hair, set off by a [illegible] of maiden hair fern. No [illegible] are worn, though bouquets for the [illegible] are admirable. Very young ladies have adopted the white chrysanthemum as [illegible] their own peculiar flower and they are [illegible] at most of the feathery white [illegible] upon their corsages, sometimes [illegible] the sleeve made of them, and [illegible] nearly all of the dressy have a sort of [illegible] once made of these lovely flowers, [illegible] which nothing could be more soft [illegible] and they must cost some [illegible] ing, too, when you consider that a single [illegible] about costs $1,500.

During the last four or five years there have been many chrysanthemum shows, at which there have been great varieties of these beautiful flowers, some of the blossoms being over six inches in diameter [illegible] as small buttons, and others as big as [illegible] under from [illegible] white through pale, yellow [illegible] color and others mixed and shaded from orange to deep red and on to a deep purple almost black, but [illegible] as it has brought out the new variety which has, as I said, become the flower of the debutantes. It is large, has long, shiny, snow white interwoven leaves, and on each leaf is a fine fringe of crystalized white down which sparkles under the light. A breath stirs it. The "society mum" is now worn this season, and you see no other flower in their [illegible] bodices.

A season ago it was orchids, and before that lilies of the valley, and preceding that golden buttercups were all the rage and daisies used to be [illegible] but all those now give place to the Japanese flower, which, beautiful as it is, always smells like [illegible] and [illegible] all pressed duck weighed.

This season is to be a pedestrian one, as far as the young women go, and in fact nearly all who are, not actually ill make a point of walking two or three miles every day. They wear a very short dress, with high boots, and the most fashionable ladies have them made with broad soles, low, flat heels and almost square toes, and, armed with a long Parasol umbrella or walking stick, they step out briskly and return rosy and brilliant.

Shoes for indoor wear, however, are just as silly as those for outdoors are sensible. High, curved heels and narrow pointed toes are the only ones seen. The satin slippers to match dresses are beaded and embroidered in the most lavish manner. Many of them are adorned with fine Rhine stones which flash like real diamonds.

Hosiery for evening wear usually matches the gown in color, and they are of silk, with open work fronts and lace insertings. A few are embroidered. One pair I noticed of chocolate, brown, exquisitely embroidered in lace in colored silk. And another pair were of dark garnet silk with yellow embroidery to match a garnet velvet dress which is picked out with canary yellow. I have looked in vain for any of the specialties in which each toe is made separate to go with tabi slippers, which some imaginative fashion authorities have written about. These slippers were said to have been made to wear with the old directoire costumes and made the prettiest look in the world for the feet. Well, I have hunted for them until now I feel sure there never was no Mrs. Harris, nor toed slippers either. What is the use of trying to make so ugly out as more foolish than it is. No woman is going to wear such a thing, how ever long as she has the [illegible] reason. They would make the [illegible] terribly lame.

The purpose of [illegible] life are first, to look pretty, second, to look prettier than her friends and above all, to look prettier than [illegible] and nothing that leads toward [illegible] noble aims is too ardu[illegible] and just now the [illegible] wards them is to wear [illegible]

Circulars were issued to-day giving announcement regarding our New Year's edition. They are accompanied by blank orders. It is requested that replies be made as promptly as possible, in order that the size of the edition may be determined. Besides the three sheets of illustrations, there will be a large amount of reading matter. Statistics of the county and each town in the county will be given as full as possible. The aim is to make this a treasure house of facts regarding the history of the town during the ... year. The size of the edition will depend in part on the number of orders. It is unnecessary to state that last year's New Year's edition was the best advertising medium the city has ever had. Thousands of reports were received by individuals sending these copies showing how highly they were appreciated. This year the illustrations will make we think, a still finer showing for the city. No illustration has been used before. They will possess artistic merit, and will give a ... correct impression regarding the city than has ever been given before. Bring in your orders early.

Denver is very sensibly aroused on the subject of securing parks. Every investment it has made so far has been very wise. The large city park on the east side was bought for fifty thousand dollars and now could be sold for not less than two millions.

General Passenger Agent S. K. Hooper ... to be always on the lookout for business. San Luis park is one of the largest and most fertile valleys in this state. Its resources have been but little developed. Mr. Hooper, realizing this called a meeting of those most interested in the valley at his office to make some arrangements for raising a fund of twelve thousand dollars to advertise the valley and secure its settlement. The meeting was largely attended by the ... most interested and was a great success. Colorado has a very small population in proportion to its territory or its resources. We have simply been scratching on the surface. We can easily support a million people and will within a few years. We want more people.

To-day's Republican will have thirty-two pages or two hundred and twenty-four columns. This will be a mammoth paper and the largest ever before printed in Denver. A year ago, a twenty page paper was considered very large. We do not know what proportion of the paper will be devoted to advertisements. But if half of the paper is reading matter there will be one hundred and twelve columns of reading matter. Each column will contain about as much reading matter as three pages of an ordinary book. This paper then would be equal to a book of three hundred and thirty six pages. While we do not favor these large Sunday editions, yet the public seem to like them, and the Republican is to be congratulated on having a patronage sufficient to warrant such a paper.

At the last meeting of the board of directors of the El Paso branch of the Colorado Humane society, it was decided to take some steps to prevent the dehorning of cattle and the docking of the tails of horses. In this connection the following from the Field and Farm published in Denver, is of interest:

"The practice of mocking the tails of horses is a ... universal condemnation ... essential object is ... It is a ... and cruel fashion, destroying the beauty of the animal and ... fly-brush, a natural weapon ... and ... insects.
